Participants in Washington & Lee's ninth annual Superdance enjoyed the music of Covacus, the White Animals, and Spiegel, Goodrich & Lillie while raising funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Co-chairmen Jim Barker and Tom Thagard and staff collected $33,152 in pledge money, making W&L one of the nation's top per capita college contributors to MDA. Along with the popular pie throwing contest, dancers were encouraged by prizes including trips to the Virgin Islands, Georgetown, and Canaan Valley ski resort.

THE DARK CONTINENT

ANNUAL

DRESS BALL

Under the supervision of SAB director Glenn Smith, Doremus Gym and the Warner Center were transformed into an African jungle for Fancy Dress 1987. The Tommy Dorsey Orchestra, the Del Fuegos, the Little Saints, and the Hoodoo Gurus provided entertainment for the revelers on the "Dark Continent." The tropical atmosphere was enhanced by African masques, bamboo and palm leaves, and a live baby elephant performing tricks in the entrance hall.

Construction workers have been busy this year finishing the new Residence Hall scheduled for completion in September, 1987. Gaines Residence Hall, named for former University president Dr. Francis P. Gaines, will house upperclassmen and law students next year. Gaines differs from existing University housing in its suite design. Another campus building, originally built in 1842, was restored this summer. President Wilson dedicated the Joella and Stewart Morris house in a special ceremony this October.

A new athletic field is under construction to meet the growing demand for playing fields. Despite problems with drainage, the fields should be ready in fall '87.

Late this fall construction workers completed rebuilding the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity house which was destroyed in a fire on April 11, 1984. The limestone exterior is once again a shiny white, and the interior is a completely refurbished example of the modern day fraternity house with a party room basement and a special chapter room for meetings. Thanks to a unique partnership with certain FIJI alumni, this restoration has been possible.

Stanislav Levchenko, the highest ranking KGB agent to defect to the U.S. spoke primarily on KGB operations and our competition with them. The representative from Greenpeace lectured on their purpose, structure, and ability to promote environmentalism. Ronald Reagan's chief speech writer for '80 to '86 Ben Elliot analyzed speech process and presidential affairs, and foreign policy at large. The infamous member of the Chicago Seven, Abbie Hoffman, discussed 1980's activism. In a speech that was humorous yet antagonistic, Hoffman chronicled 1980's politics and student activist involvement.

FOUNDER'S DAY

All photos by W. Patrick Hinely

The 116th celebration of W&L's Founders' Day, the annual recognition of General Robert E. Lee's birthday, was held on January 19th in Lee Chapel. Omicron Delta Kappa's Alpha Circle received twenty-three students and four honorary initiates into its fraternity, which recognizes superior leadership and achievement in various aspects of campus life. Honorary inductees included Robert W. Meador, Shuford Rienhardt Nichols, John Edmonds Neill, and John W. Warner. The principal speaker was Henry J. Abraham, the James Hart Professor of Government and Foreign Affairs at the University of Virginia. His speech, entitled "Our Enduring and Evolving Constitution: Some Reflections," was one of a series of events celebrating the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

SJF

W&L students organized and held a "Constitutional Convention" in May of last year, one of several events scheduled to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the U.S. Constitution. It was believed to be the only exercise of that type attempted during the year of celebration. According to keynote speaker Fred Graham, former CBS legal affairs correspondent, the W & L Convention was "probably as close as this nation will come to a real constitutional convention in the foreseeable future." Rather than reenact the original convention of 1787, the W&L delegates debated contemporary issues. An amendment that would prevent the federal government from withholding funds from states as a way of forcing compliance with federal policy was the only bill out of five that was passed. A written analysis and interpretation of the convention will be sent to various other colleges, commissions, and individuals who expressed an interest in the bicentennial event.

One of W&L's most distinguished alumni, Justice Lewis F. Powell, was honored at the unveiling and dedication of his portrait at Lewis Hall in mid-May. Powell graduated from W&L in 1929 and from the law school in 1931. He is well-known as the former president of the American Bar Association and the chairman of the Richmond school board during the school integration crisis in the 1950's. The painting was commissioned from the same artist who painted Powell's Supreme Court portrait, and will hang outside the Moot Courtroom in the law school.

On Friday afternoon, students, faculty, and alumni participated in a panel discussion on family owned businesses in preparation for an upcoming seminar. The discussion was designed to analyze the special problems of succession of younger generations in small, family owned businesses.

Over 500 alumni from 10 reunion classes, 1937-1982, attended the 1987 Alumni Weekend at Washington and Lee. On Friday afternoon, the alums enjoyed a luncheon under the shade of the trees on the Front Lawn next to the President's home after the unveiling of Justice Powell's portrait at the law school. A half hour of music followed as the Glee Club, University Chorus, and Southern Comfort performed in front of Lee Chapel. The Instrumental Ensemble provided a concert of sax and violins on Saturday morning, followed by W&L's own Heinsolm and Day and guided tours of the newly renovated Fiji house. Phi Delta fraternity also celebrated its one hundredth anniversary on campus at its "Centennial" festivities.

MOCK CONVENTION KICKOFF

WPH

SJP

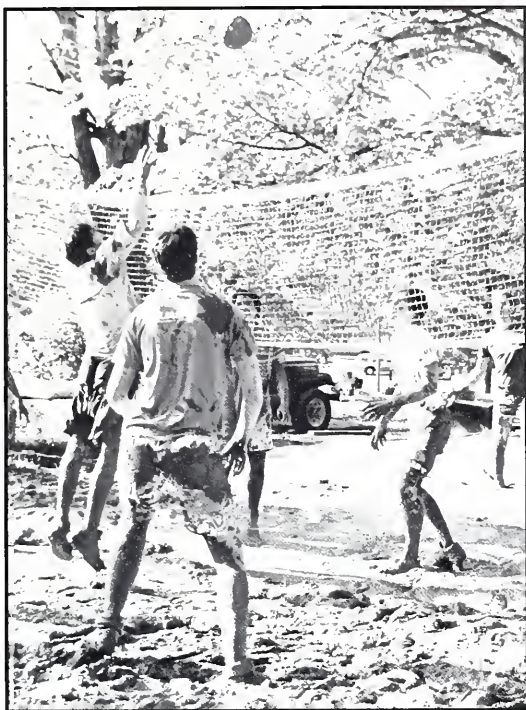

The kickoff speaker for W&L's 1985 Mock Democratic convention was the Reverend Jesse Jackson, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president in 1984. Before a front lawn crowd estimated at 2500, Jackson discussed college students and political activity, and called on those over 18 and not registered to vote to get involved because they could "Make a difference." He also stressed the familiar themes of economic recovery, human rights, and civil rights. Student reaction to the speech was mixed, and although many did not agree with Jackson's ideology, most seemed to agree with junior Chris Munsey, who noted that "if it helps students to be more politically aware, that alone was worth the Mock Democratic's Convention's efforts to bring him to W&L."

GREEK WEEK

W&L's first Greek Week was held from May 4th to 11th. Among the activities for the week were "oozeball," golf, and softball tournaments and a concert in the Student Activities Pavilion featuring Skip Castro. The Interfraternity Council Open raised more than $600 to benefit the American Cancer Society. Pictured below is the winning team of the golf tournament with their trophy.

Frustration and adversity were the key words for the Generals' 1986 football season. After enjoying a record six straight winning seasons and tying for the Old Dominion Athletic Conference championship last year with a 7-2 record, the Generals reversed that mark this year winning only two out of nine contests. And in retrospect, many people — spectators and players alike — wondered why the squad's formidable abilities and potential were not matched this year by the number of victories it achieved.

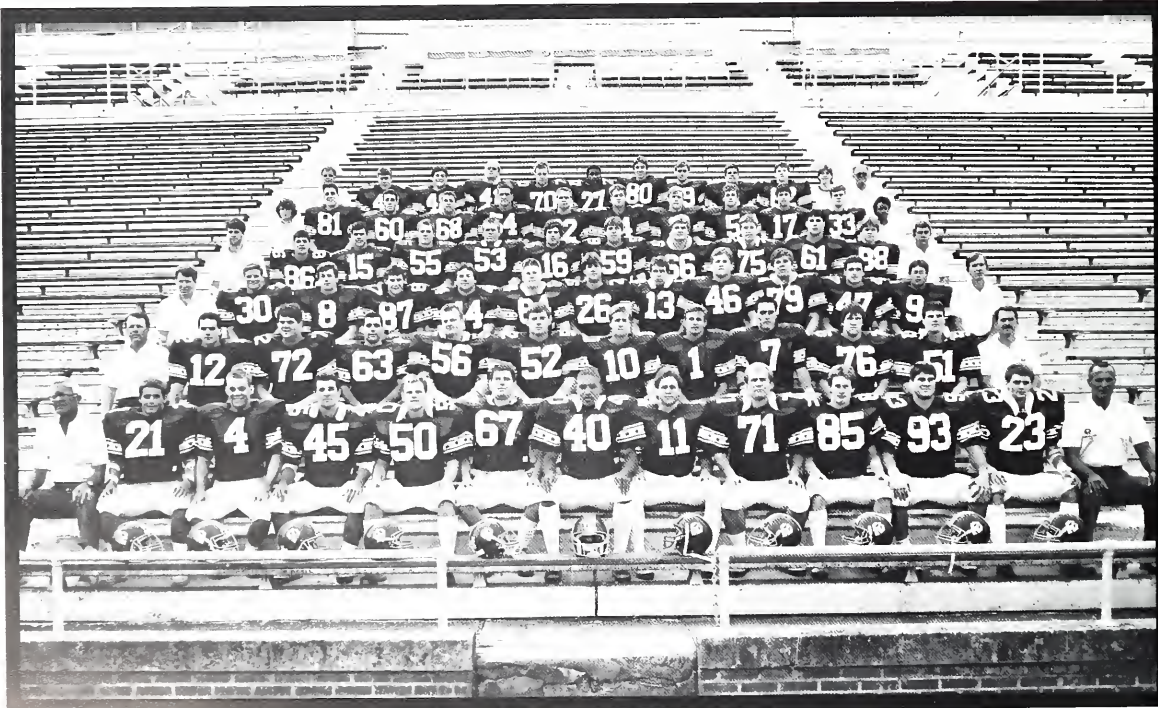

The Generals certainly did not lack talent or experience in many positions: 1986 saw the return of several all-conference performers on both sides of the ball, including former ODAC player of the year Kevin Weaver, who had led the nation in NCAA Division III scoring and posted four different school records during the 1985 season. Given the momentum of previous years and the usual rigor of Gary Fallon's pre-season football camp, the outlook for the Generals in 1986 was certainly positive. Pre-season, however, was also where W&L first felt the tinges of the adversity which was to plague most of their season: on the fourth day, senior linebacker and placekicker B. J. Sturgill suffered a broken leg that sidelined him for six of the Generals' nine games.

On September 13, 1986, Washington and Lee opened its season on Wilson Field against the Emory and Henry Wasps, the team which eventually won the ODAC championship and went on to represent the conference in the NCAA Division III national tournament. Once again the football Generals received an ominous forewarning of their troubles to come. The 29 yard field goal by sophomore Bill Crabill, which capped W&L's impressive opening drive, was ruled wide by an official who was unable to see the ball pierce the uprights. Crabill was able to boot another 27 yarder in the first quarter, but after that Washington and Lee fell victim to the big play. E&H averaged 7.9 yards on only fifty offensive plays to outscore the Generals 30-9, with fullback Jim Barker rushing for W&L's only touchdown.

The Generals had an open date for week two, and were not overly discouraged by the defeat. After all, W&L was no stranger to slow starts — Emory had shut out the gridders 30-0 in the 1985 opener, but the Generals had then embarked on a spectacular six game winning streak. For game two, the team travelled to Danville Kentucky to face Centre College. The game was truly a heart-breaker. Washington and Lee, down 7-0, scored with just 1:10 left in the ball game. The Generals decided to go for the win and attempt a two-point conversion, but senior quarterback Jon Thornton's pass was deflected in the end zone, and the Colonels were able to squeeze out a 7-6 victory. It appeared the Generals were going to seize the opportunity of game 3 against the Randolph-Macon Yellow Jackets to swing the momentum of the season. W&L played well; tailback Weaver rushed for 131 yards in 33 carries to go over a career 200 yards and set two more school records for career points and touchdowns. Quarterback Thornton passed for one touchdown, a 17 yard completion to tight end Garfield Prebor, and wedged his way one yard for another. Each time the Generals struck, the Yellowjackets managed to rally and tie up the score; then, with only 32 seconds left in the game, W&L went ahead 20-14, which would have assured them of a victory. The ensuing extra point, however, was blocked. Randolph-Macon drove to W&L's 21 yard line, where in the game's final seconds a high "Hail Mary" pass was deflected in the end zone by General defenders into the hands of a Yellow-jacket wide receiver. Randolph-Macon won a successful extra point attempt, and for the second week in a row, the Generals fell victim to a wrenching one-point loss.

The Generals began to spiral downward. They lacked intensity and allowed Maryville, a team they should have beaten, to climb back into the game and win by a touchdown, 35-28. In game 5, Homecoming against a very powerful Hampden-Sidney squad, the Generals hit rock bottom with their worst performance of the year. The Tigers blew out Washington and Lee 45-14.

Fortunately, the Generals were able to regroup and gain some poise against Sewanee the next week. Though they lost the contest, they were able to put together some fine drives in the second half of that game and were almost able to overcome a 14-9 halftime deficit. With 2:52 left, losing by a touchdown, quarterback Thornton, who had earlier hit senior Paul Youngman for a 13 yard score, completed a 36 yard pass to Randy Brown to put the Generals within striking distance, but the Generals on a wet Wilson Field were unable to convert their rally into a win.

Momentum, however, had finally changed for Washington and Lee, and for two back to back games they played the kind of football they knew they were capable of.

Against the Bridgewater Eagles, W&L registered an all out "team effort." The defense was stingy at crucial points in game, pulling down several interceptions in the fourth quarter. Offensively, virtually everyone produced, and Thornton, who had been plagued by interceptions in the Generals' last two outings, had his best performance of the year completing 10 of 16 for 126 yards. Even the special teams got into the act, as junior Chris Coffland busted open a 90 yard kickoff return in the third period. The Generals won 28-14. And the Bridgewater game featured the triumphant return of kicker Sturgill, who booted all four extra points.

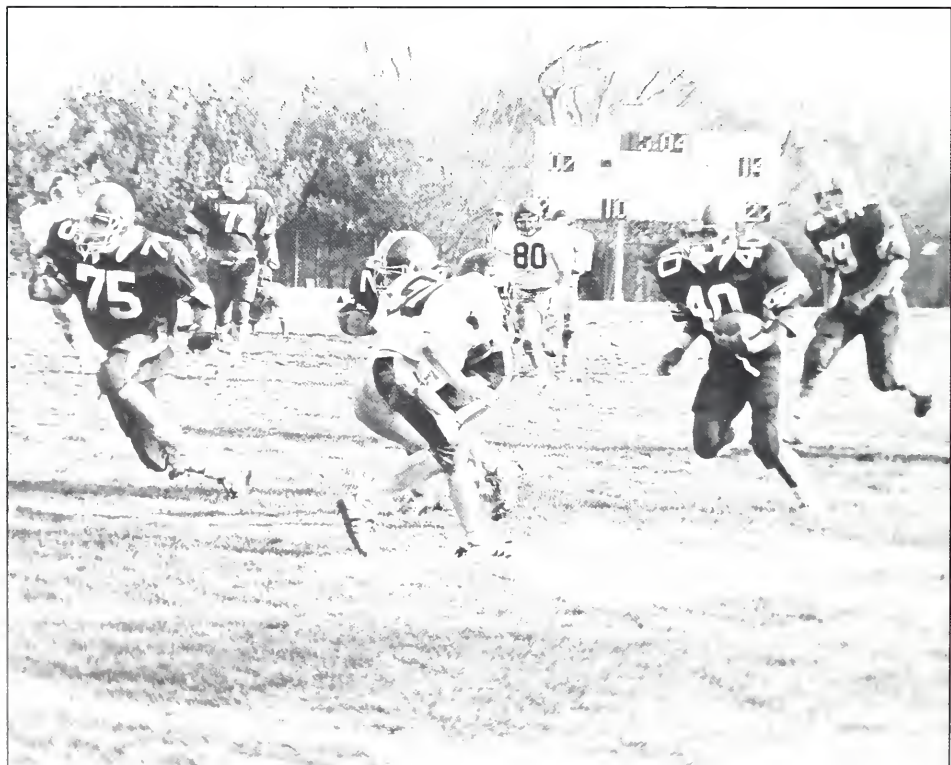

In their final home game against the Ursinus Bears, on Parent's Day, the Washington and Lee football Generals shone. After falling behind 7-0, the Generals scored in all four quarters. Tailback Kevin Weaver broke open a run from scrimmage for a school record 89 yards. Wide receiver Randy Brown had nine receptions for 189 yards and a TD, and freshman cornerback Robert Rimmer had three interceptions, four pass deflections, and nine tackles. The Generals won resoundingly 28-7. In their last game against Allegheny College, which featured a 14 hour bus trip and a snowy field, the Generals were beaten badly; and the Ursinus game was therefore the team's second and final victory.

Though the season was certainly frustrating, there were some very bright spots in the Generals' lineup. Junior offensive tackle John Packett, in addition to earning all-conference honors, was named a first team Kodak NCAA Division III All-American. Senior wide receiver Randy Brown, also named all conferencee, received Virginia all-state recognition as well. Tailback Kevin Weaver, despite a tough senior season, still managed to break several school records, and was named to the ODAC's second team. And, senior Jon Thornton was named a Division three Academic All-American.

The team will graduate sixteen seniors who have experienced three winning seasons at W&L. They are: FB Jim Barker, DT John Benford, LB Bob Berlin, WR Randy Brown, QB Bill Brown, TE John Brownlee, OG Mark Herman, FS Jo Krastel, C Jack Mitchell, DE Jim Murphy, WR Rick Pierce, LB and K B. J. Sturgill, QB Jon Thornton, SE Bobby Wilson, RB Kevin Weaver, and WR Paul Youngman.

Washington and Lee water polo continued its role as one of the East Coast's premier teams in 1986, taking top 20 teams Brown, Iona, and Army to the wire in close losses and defeating the #19 Richmond at W&L in October. With the graduation of only 2 players, tri-captains Kevin Lederer and goalie Martin Radvany, W&L seems ready to raise the regional successes they have enjoyed recently up to the national level in the coming years.

The Generals opened the season at home with the W&L Fall Classic, and reached the championship game with lopsided victories over Lynchburg, George Washington, Johns Hopkins, and Dayton. Facing University of Arkansas/Little Rock in the final, the Generals played what coach Remillard called "an excellent early-season game" only to come up short 11-9 in a very exciting contest.

The next weekend saw the Generals on the road at the North-East Varsity Invitational in Providence, Rhode Island. W&L went 2 for 4, losing close contests to nationally-ranked Army (10-8) and Bucknell (16-9) and defeating MIT (15-7) and Fordham (12-7).

The Generals returned home the following weekend for the Va. State Championships. In the championship game, W&L fell to arch-rival Richmond (13-11) in the first meeting between the teams of the season.

W&L began conference play next, traveling to Washington, D.C. for Round 1 of the Southern League Tournament. The Generals breezed their way to the final game, only to fall again to the Spiders of Richmond, 10-7. The team took this loss very hard and set their sights on the 3rd Richmond W&L match-up to be played at W&L in 2 weeks, but first, the Generals rode to Annapolis, MD for the SE Varsity Invitational where they had a very successful tournament, high-lighted by a 9-1 trouncing of a strong Harvard team and a double-overtime thriller against 10th ranked Brown, which the Generals eventually lost 15-12.

Coming off these successful outings, W&L set its sights on Richmond in Round Two of the Southern League and, keyed by outstanding goalie play, downed the Spiders 6-4 in front of a home crowd at Twombly pool. This was the first victory over Richmond for the Generals in more than 2 seasons and it carried W&L into the Southern Conference Championships the following weekend in Richmond, VA on a wave of confidence. The team plowed its way through Duke and George Washington in impressive fashion to earn a spot in the championship game against Richmond, but the Generals came up way short in a wild and disappointing contest, 18-8.

W&L wrapped up the season in Annapolis, MD at the Eastern Championships by placing 7th, losing to Brown (18-8) and Army [9-8 (OT)] and then regrouping to defeat Howard (11-6).

The Generals compiled a 21-11 record over the course of a very successful season in which they proved they could play with anyone. With the return of a very talented group of underclassmen, the W&L water polo team is ready to make the transition from an upset-minded squad to the role of a top 20 power and serious contender for one of the East Coast's 2 berths in the NCAA championship tournament in 1987.

The 1986 soccer season proved to be nothing short of a landmark in the history of the sport at Washington and Lee, as this year's Generals (led by Coach Rolf Piranian, Brian Corrigan, and David McKay) re-wrote the record books, coming away with their most successful season to date (11-0-4) and the ODAC Championship title.

The Generals took to the road for the first four games of this season. Hindered by a relatively late starting pre-season, the team, nevertheless, made a strong showing in the season opener against Shenandoah, coming out 3-1. However, this initial success was the only bright spot in this first week of the season. Just three days later, in a weekend tournament in North Carolina, the Generals were defeated by East Carolina (0-1) and North Carolina Wesleyan (0-4). Then, only three days after that, the Generals travelled to Mary Washington, only to be shutout again by a score of 0-3.

Victory, however, came to the Generals in the friendlier confines of Smith Field with their first home match. The crowd was treated to a fantastic display of team play as the Generals trounced the University of the South 8-0! Following this apparently pivotal point in the season, the Generals went on to claim another home field win by defeating Greensboro College 3-1.

The winning trend did not stop for the Generals, but evidently became more difficult as they took to the road for three games. W&L travelled to Roanoke College for their first ODAC game of the season. After devoting almost 90 minutes to banging heads in a scoreless match, junior John Coll finally put the ball in the nets for the game winner. Yet another close call came when the Generals travelled to Pennsylvania to battle Messiah College. The Generals came away with their fifth win of the season only after junior Charles Lyle headed in the game winning goal and freshman goalkeeper Jack Pringle made a spectacular penalty kick save, clinching the 2-1 victory. To cap off their absence from Smith Field, the Generals beat next door neighbors, Virginia Military Institute, 2-1 on the Parade Grounds.

The Generals' Fourth and final loss of the season was to Gettysburg College, being shut out 0-2. However, Coach Piranian impressed upon his players the importance of the next match — the second ODAC game vs. Eastern Mennonite. After showing signs of the play that brought about their loss to Gettysburg, the Generals downed Mennonite in a close overtime victory 2-1. On the road again, W&L faced Hampden-Sydney in the rain. However, the elements did not hinder the Generals as they took the win by a score of 3-0. Besides being the General's third ODAC win of the season, this game was also the start of a trend for the entire season. Specifically, junior goalkeeper Chris Gareis earned his 12th career shut-out, breaking the previous school record of 11.

The Generals returned to Smith Field to play their last three games. The first of these was against ODAC rival and last year's ODAC champions, Lynchburg College. Because of W&L's and Lynchburg's records, this game also proved to be for the 1986 ODAC Championship — a title, heretofore, never earned by a Washington and Lee soccer team. In the hardest hitting and most fiercely fought game of the season, the Generals went head-to-head with Lynchburg. The Generals were kept in the game as John Coll scored the first W&L goal to match Lynchburg's one. Goalkeeper Chris Gareis then did his share by saving a penalty kick, sending the game into overtime. The coveted victory came as Coll again found the nets, earning the game winning goal in the second overtime period — the 1986 Generals became the ODAC Champs! Topping off their season, the Generals went on to earn two more wins, downing Maryville College 8-1 and Averett College 4-2.

The 1986 W&L soccer season is highlighted by a number of personal and team bests:

- most wins in a season for a W&L soccer team
- most goals in a season for a W&L soccer team
- only the second undefeated ODAC Championship in ODAC history
- most assists in a season for a W&L player (Patrick Brown)
- most career shut-outs for a W&L goalkeeper (Chris Gareis)
- All-ODAC players (John Coll, Chris Gareis & Peter Van Son)
- All-South players (Chris Gareis & Peter Van Son)
- first W&L soccer team to become ODAC Champs

At the post-season dinner for the 1986 W&L Soccer Team, Coach Piranian commented on and emphasized the spirit of team play. They took to make this year the Generals' most successful one to date. He noted that the individual recognition of players reflected well on, and is a result of, the entire team's effort this past season.

Next season the Generals will be without three graduating seniors — Tommy Pee and co-captains Jimmy Tucker and Peter Van Son. However, juniors John Coll and Charles Lyle will be filling in their shoes as co-captains, and this year's Most Valuable Offensive and Defensive Players, freshmen Patrick Brown and Scott Levitt, respectively, should again prove productive. The Generals will also see the return of starters Mike Veluionna, Johnny Sarber (notably, this year's top scorer), Chris Gareis, Jamie Urso, Steve Udicious, Jeff Caggiano, and Rick Silva. Coach Piranian is looking forward to next season, hoping to couple the excitement of success in the past season with the vitality of a still young team. The Generals are adding Johns Hopkins and Division II Millersville to the 1987 schedule, however, both of which serve to make things more difficult for W&L. Nevertheless, in what way this will affect the Generals' performance next year remains to be seen, for now they are enjoying the pride of being the most successful W&L soccer team in the university's history.

In the anonymity of the woods beyond the pavillion, the W&L men's cross country team raced to its 8th consecutive winning season. The '86 harriers proved the value of teamwork as the top four runners, captain Ted Myers, senior Ash Andrews, and juniors Richard Moore and Scott Rippeon, ran consistently as a strong back, each having his chance to lead the team in at least one contest. This "no stars" teamwork proved effective as the Generals compiled a 13-3 record, including a victory over Division I VCU, and losses to the likes of Emory (12th ranked Division III team in the nation), and to eventual ODAC and Regional Champions Roanoke College, the latter in a very close 2 point contest.

After a strong regular season, the Generals returned to Lexington to host the ODAC championships. Through rain and mud, three runners, Rippeon, Myers, and Moore, placed in the top seven, (4th, 5th, and 7th respectively) earning All-Conference honors, only the second time that that many W&L runners had been so honored in a single season. This was only enough to place the squad a respectable third, the fifth season in a row in which they have finished third or better in the conference.

The Generals hosted the NCAA Division III SE Regional Meet. With snow on the ground, the harriers came within 4 points of qualifying as a team for Nationals, placing behind Roanoke and Emory for 3rd in the Region. The front runners, Moore, Myers, and Rippeon, ran as a pack again finishing within 7 seconds of each other on 3rd, 11th, and 5th, qualifying them for nationals, and along with Andrews, 11th, receiving All-Region honors.

ON November 22, in Fredonia, New York, the team was sent by W&L to a national cross country meet, and competed strongly, finishing well ahead of 5 of regional champion Roanoke's men.

While next year's team will be weakened by the loss of 5 seniors; Myers, Andrews as well as Doug Turrell, Steve Pockrass, and Matthew Laws, the team can look forward to the return of Moore, Rippeon, along with Rick Norris and Greg Casker, and also Jim Busenlener, Joe Gettner, all of whom showed promise of aiding the W&L cross country to its 8th winning season.

COUNTRY

Not only did the size of the women's cross-country team increase, but so did the number of meets and the women's level of competition. The Lady Generals improved their initial record of last year's season of 1-5 to a 3-5 mark.

Incessant improvement characterized this year's season due to the determination of Coach Jim Phenister and his team members. "Each week we broke another school or course record," said Phenister. "The runners showed a lot of dedication and enthusiasm. They earned my respect and the attention of all their opponents."

Leading the team into a more advanced level of competition, sophomore Stephanie Smith held the pace as W&L's top finisher. The women's victory over Virginia Tech, Emory and Henry, and Lynchburg College revealed the new team's ability to work together. Sophomores Copeland Kapp, Tracy Williams, Stephanie Smith, Kim Eadie, and Anne Geary grouped together with freshman Wendy Wilson, Catherine Baillo, Sonya Crayton, and Patsy Scuttio for a rewarding second year.

With a 3-5 record, the Lady Generals finished third in the ODAC championship, and came in seventh out of eight teams in the NCAA Division III South-Southeast Regional.

SWIMMING AND DIVING

A young but determined group of men put together another successful W&L swimming season. With the addition of several talented freshmen, Adam Morgan, Sean Copeland, and David Olson, the men's team was able to compile a dual meet record of 8-1 and their first Tri-States Championship Crown.

In the season opener against the Virginia Military Institute, the team produced national qualifying and school record swims by David Reavy (200 free), David Olson (100, 200, back), Jeff Bercaw (50 free), and the 400 yd. Medley Relay of Bercaw (back), Martin Radvang (breast), Bercaw (butterfly), and Dave Dietz (free). The Generals easily defeated VMI and were well on their way to another fine year.

After a loss on the road to Division III powerhouse Shippensburg University, they defeated Georgetown, Frostburg State, Shepherd College, Towson State, Gettysburg, Mary Washington, and finally William and Mary in a season — ending six point win 111-105.

The Generals gave seniors Martin Radvang and Jay Reville the first place trophy from the Tri-States Championship meet held at Frostburg State, in Maryland. The Generals won by over 100 points and David Reavy was honored with the most valuable swimmer award.

The Generals qualified five swimmers for the nationals during the course of the season. The 400 Medley relay team of Olson, Radvang, Bercaw, and Reavy placed 14th with a time of 3:32.6. Jay Reville was 16th in the 400 individual Medley with a 4:12.0 and posted a 1:58 in the 200 I.M. David Olson placed 7th in the 200 yd. (54.5). Jeff Bercaw was 8th in the 50 yd. freestyle (21.8) and swam a 48.8 in the 100. David Reavy went 22.2 in the 50 yd. free, 1:45 in the 200 free and 48.6 in the 100 free.

With a young squad that is not only deep but dedicated, the Generals are to have much to look forward to, as well as look back upon.

The women started their season off early. Practices started in mid-September with morning practices consisting of weight training at 6:30 am., and the afternoons consisting of a rigorous swim workout from 3:30-6:15pm. The divers spent their evenings under the direction of Coach Arnold Joyce. The divers practiced both at VMI and W&L along with members of VMI's diving team.

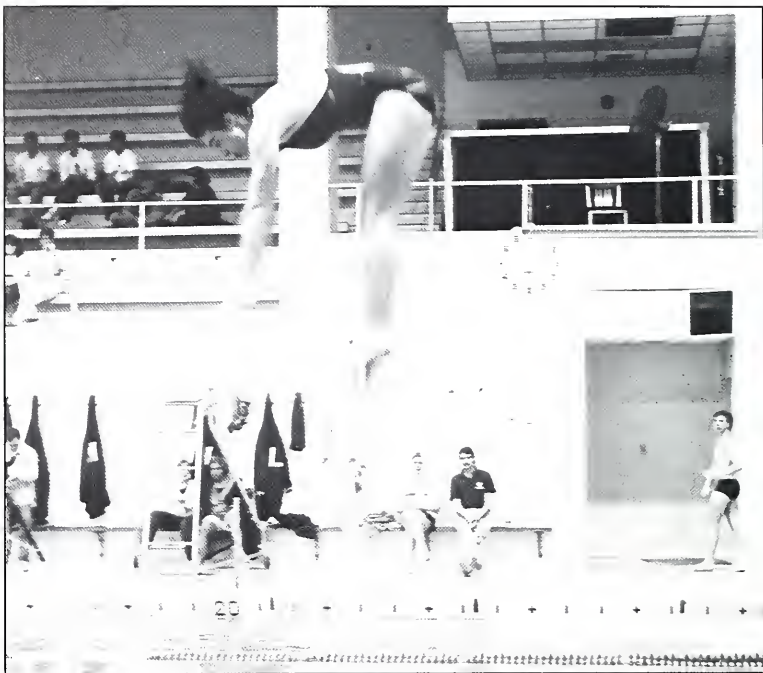

Christmas rolled around and the Generals spent their time in Melbourne, Florida swimming in an outdoor longcourse pool. With a nautilus workout in the morning and two water workouts following, the Generals endured the challenge.

The hard work paid off when the "swimm'n' women" went on to defeat every team in the ODAC — Mary Baldwin, Sweet Briar, Hollins, and Randolph - Macon Women's College.

As she did last year, captain Elizabeth Miles went on to qualify for the division III Nationals. This year she qualified for the mile (1650).

The women went on to beat Sweet Briar at the Tri-States in Frostburg, and take 4th overall with Sweet Briar very close behind in 5th place. Due to the unusual scoring of the ODAC championships (which are tallied at Tri-States) the women ended up behind Sweet Briar. The small number of members hurt the women here, but they still walked away with the title of ODAC runner-up.

Overall, it was a successful and rewarding season for the Generals, and the women have a definite future ahead of them.

With all five starters returning from last years ODAC second place team, the 1986-87 season looked encouraging for the Generals. While the Generals did enjoy their best season since the 82-83 campaign, they still came up short of the ODAC championship which has eluded them since 1980. The season was full of accomplishments both on and off the floor of Warner Center. The team enjoyed Christmas Break touring Europe and when these globetrotting cagers weren't playing exhibition games they were enjoying seeing the sights of France, Belgium, West Germany, and Luxembourg, a rare opportunity for a basketball team, one that all enjoyed.

With captains Jefferson Harralson and Fred Bissinger and three-year letterwinner Robbie Spencer leading the way the Generals posted an (8-6) record in the ODAC which gave them a tie for a third place in the league. With a respectable conference record, the Generals prepared to battle the Lynchburg Hornets, a team that Washington and Lee had beaten twice during the regular season. A team is tough to beat three times in a single season and Lynchburg proved this to be true as they eliminated Washington and Lee from the ODAC tournaments and ended the Generals season on a sour note. The Generals built a sizeable lead in front of the hometown crowd at Warner Center, but the boisterous partisan fans could do nothing to keep the Hornets from pulling an upset over the determined Generals.

As an overlook of the season the team made great strides in becoming a championship team, but they couldn't win the big one when they had to. All-Star forward Jefferson Harralson was quite a bright spot for the team making All-ODAC, All-South and Honorable Mention All-American. Robbie Spencer wreaked havoc among ODAC foes with his deadly bank shot that was praised by even the most critical sportscasters. Always smiling Fred Bissinger lowered his travels per game to be one of the best ODAC guards. The Springfield stud swished his way to a rewarding offensive year while roomie Lou Trosch regained the West Charlotte form that put fear into the minds of opponents. Some other notable events that made the 86-87 season a memorable one were Gary Schott coming on strong in the lane and also talking. Harmon was barely recognizable with the short do and the boys from Metro-Beaufort made big contributions to the Canfield-Young-Lyons strategy. Emmanuel Klump of the Order set new records with his three point heaves. The stat keeping of former All-bench Ross Singletary was sorely missed but with a good recruiting year the Generals may possibly replace his shattering dunks that brought the fans of Warner Center to their feet.

The Washington and Lee wrestling team enjoyed another winning season under the direction of coach Gary Franke, compiling a record of nine wins and five losses. The first part of the season was plagued by injuries, which sidelined four starters. Mark Robertson (167 lbs.) underwent knee surgery, keeping him out for the entire year. Another loss was co-captain Jeff Mazza, ineligible because of an underload of credits taken during the fall semester. The rest of the team had to pick up the slack for these wrestlers, and it proved to be a formidable task, met with considerable success.

The first match was a disappointing loss to Virginia Tech. After the Christmas break, however, the team was back to almost full strength and proceeded to have a fine season. The Washington and Lee Invitational, the annual tournament which the home team has traditionally dominated, had to be cancelled due to the snow that blanketed Lexington. The final match of the season against traditional arch-rival Hampden-Sydney proved to be quite a scare, as the Generals narrowly escaped with a 23-21 victory. W&L has never lost to the Tigers.

The Eastern regionals treated the team well as 177 pounder Rich Redfoot placed second and co-captain Steve Castle placed third at 118 pounds. Seniors Jeff Mazza and Tim Walker placed fourth and sixth respectively at 134 and 142 pounds. Redfoot and Castle qualified for the NCAA Division III tournament as a result of their performances. With a quality nucleus of eight starters returning, and a strong freshman class expected, coaches Franke and Piranian hope once again to land the Generals among the finest wrestling programs in the South.

The 1987 Washington and Lee lacrosse team completed its finest season since 1980, compiling an 11-4 record and a final four appearance in the division III playoffs. That move to D-III proved instrumental in revitalizing a once proud program forced to compete against scholarship-laden teams. National ranking, renewed campus and alumni interest and superior crowd support were all the results of this success.

The season began Jan. 5, with team members organizing for the dreaded off-season running programs. It was there that coach Daly first outlined his objectives, "that we be a class group of people, committed to playing for a class program." Pre-season was highlighted by the team's trip to Florida, a welcome break from snowbound Lexington. Culminating with scrimmage at the Mount Washington Club, the team promised that youth would be served, as freshmen Reid Campbell, Carlos Millan and Jim Jones all turned in exceptional performances. Many alumni marveled at how hungry this young team seemed in their debut. It was a hunger that would sustain them throughout the season. After having suffered through three losing seasons, this group of seniors, led by captains John Church and T.J. Finnerty, were determined to make the move to D-III a successful one.

Opening a day late, on March 1st at the famed Glen Maurice Park in B.V. against UVA, the Generals once again came up short, despite Robbie Stanton's four goals and the home field advantage. The fourth quarter proved to be the deciding factor, despite the fantastic goaltending of Church, 10 wins later, however, the Generals were perched atop the D-III rankings, while Virginia floundered. John Ware and Neill Redfern had combined for nearly 130 points and were terrorizing opposing defenses. Both only sophomores, they typified the team's youthful spirit and intensity.

W&L rebounded from their opening loss with a Fancy Dress triumph over ODAC rival Lynchburg. After having only led 5-1 at half-time, the Generals destroyed the hornets in the second half of the game, with a final 16-6. Next came highly ranked Ohio Wesleyan, who at this point in the season were no match for the speed and quickness of the Generals. Hayting controlled the ball for much of the first period, yet only managing a 1-1 tie, a tired OWU team succumbed to the onslaught of W & L's defense and the offensive prowess of Redfern. The team coasted to a surprisingly easy 12-8 victory. W&L then rolled over an overmatched Swarthmore team that following Saturday, 18-2, as Bill Garavento tallied a hat trick.

The next phase of the season would prove to be the test, as the team would play six games in the span of 13 days. After having escaped with a 13-9 victory over a fired-up Notre Dame squad, the Generals traveled to Gettysburg to play what Coach Daly termed a "big, big game." Taking what they had learned from their mid-week scare, they destroyed their northern foe by a commanding 20-10. Senior defenseman Bob Berlin tallied one of those 20 from behind the midline, past a confused Gettysburg ride and won him a game ball. Crosstown rival V.M.I. also proved a formidable opponent, and it took almost all of John Ware's recordbreaking 13 points to subdue the Keydets. A five goal fourth period sealed the victory at 15-10. ODAAC foe Randolph-Macon provided the next opposition for the tired Generals. Although victorious at 16-12, Daly called this a "most dissatisfying win." W&L needed a lift.

That lift would be provided by none other than T.J. Finnerty, co-captain, four year starter, the heart and soul of this team. He was all over, the field against Dartmouth in the Generals' next game, tallying two goals and owning every ground ball that was anywhere near him. The final score stood at 20-9, and the Generals were surging. Middlebury made their April fool's day appearance in Lexington, but nobody was laughing. W&L disposed of their second New England foe in as many games, 13-5 and calmed coach Daly, who had coached there early in his career and was intent on showing them just how good his team was. Middlebury had boasted a #9 USILA ranking and the best goalie in New England, but they were no match.

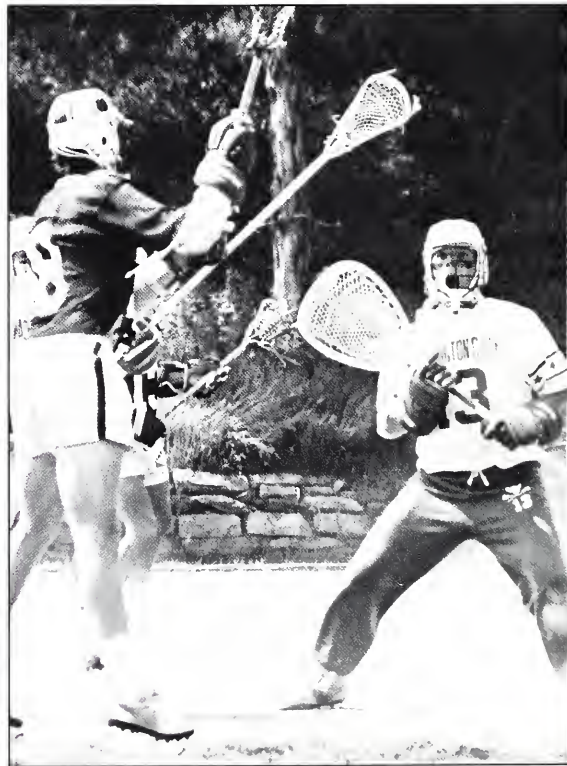

Spring break brought rain but certainly no blues for the Generals as they took their show on the road against Hampden-Sydney in Farmville on April 18. A close first half was blown wide open as face-off man extraordinaire, Sandy Harrison dominated on the X and pumped in three goals to lead his team to a wet but commanding victory over the Tigers, 16-6. Also credit the Generals defense, which quietly shut down any semblance of offense B-SC tried to muster in the second half, allowing only one goal. Ranked #1, the Generals had nowhere to go but down, falling to fourth ranked Washington College the following week, 12-9 after having trailed 8-1. The season finale against Roanoke now had much greater playoff implications. What may have been termed a "lackluster performance" provided the most exciting game played on Wilson Field that season. The Generals once again fell behind early, and trailed 8-4 at half. The teams traded goals, yet could only get within 12-9 after three periods. Down 14-10, the final 1:49 of regulation play can hardly be called lackluster, as John Ware, Neill Redfern and finally Robbie Stanton peppered the Roanoke net to tie the game. Seven seconds into the second overtime, however, the cheers went silent, and Roanoke celebrated.

The following Wednesday's 19-11 spanking of the Maroons in the first round of the D-111 playoffs could not have been a sweeter victory. It is one that this team would like to be remembered for. The return of Reid Campbell on defense was vital, as was the stellar goaltending of Church. Peter Smith, unsung creaseman, came off the bench to score five goals. The General's final effort on Wilson Field proved to be their finest. To explain a 17-4 loss of OWU in Ohio would be impossible. A successful season, an unfortunate ending.

Washington and Lee's baseball program suffered through another disappointing season in 1987, compiling a final record of 6-16. One of the major problems was an injury to top pitcher and solid hitting senior Bill Schoettelkotte, who suffered a broken foot just five games into the season. First year head coach Jeff Stickley had hoped to instill the Generals with the fundamentals that win baseball games, pitching and defense, and was satisfied with the teams performance during their February trip in Florida. Two early season three-game losing streaks damaged any hopes that the Generals had of mounting a threat to capture the ODAC title.

The season began with a double-header split against W. Virginia Tech. A ninth inning passed ball cost them the opener 2-1, but the team rebounded and destroyed their opponents in the second game 12-1. The Generals then dropped three games in a row, losing 5-4 to Christopher Newport and 3-2 to Loch Haven. Heading into the thick of it's ODAC schedule, the Generals could never mount any substantial offensive threat, save for a whitewashing of Eastern Mennonite, 21-8. In the words of coach Stickley, "we seem to be facing every team's number one pitcher," which can be translated into a double-header loss at the hands of Randolph-Macon in Ashland a devastating 19-1 drubbing by high-powered Lynchburg. That week was capped off by a split against Emory and Henry. The loss of Schoettelkotte was more and more evident as the Generals were forced to use a limited pitching rotation, anchored by Carter Steuart and Erica Acra and rounded out by inexperienced sophomores Richard Grace and Chris Cunningham.

After cramming so many important league games into such a short period, the team took a 13-day break, taking on Radford following exams, splitting yet another double-header. Another week of ODAC games once again treated the Generals harshly, as they lost 15-7 at Lynchburg and split that weekend to Maryville. Both Maryville games went onto extra innings, and proved that despite a season of adversity the Generals had not lost their desire to win. Pacing the team to this point in the schedule were the ever consistent Harry Halpert and power-hitting senior Chris Talley. Combined with the dynamic pitching efforts of Steuart, the team headed into the homestretch of the season. The Generals dropped their last five games in a row, as errors and frustration told the tale, and an extra-inning loss to Eastern Mennonite was called "the hardest of the season" by Coach Stickley. Bridgewater ended W&L's season in the league tournament by a score of 7-4.

For the W&L track and field team, 1987 proved to be the year of the Generals. The thin clads captured their fourth consecutive indoor title and ran away with the ODAC outdoor meet.

On the last day of February, W&L won the indoor championships by 48 points. Junior Andy White was selected indoor Runner-of-the-Year and Coach Norris Aldridge was named Indoor Coach-of-the-Year. Along with White's victory in the 55-meter hurdles and his blazing leg on W&L's 400-meter relay. Senior Tom Murray set a conference and school record in the shot put with a heave of 50 feet, 1 2 inch. There were additional victories from senior John Burlingame in the long jump, and the 3200-meter relay team of Ted Myers, Jamie Urso, John White, and Brandt Wood.

On FD Weekend, a few tracksters made the trip to VMI again for the Va. State Division II and III Indoor meet. Richard Moore ran to victory in the 3000-meter event setting a state meet and school record in the process. Tom Murray also won the shotput.

However, the successful indoor season proved to only be a preview of what was to come. The Generals started their fourth undefeated season by defeating Roanoke on the cinders of Wilson Field. W&L won 11 of the 17 events and took most of the seconds and thirds. John White led the team in the triple jump and the 400-meters while his brother Andy won the 110-meters high hurdles and the 400-meter intermediate hurdles.

The speedsters then traveled to a meet with Bridgewater, Eastern mennonite, and Heidelberg college. W&L tri-captains Andy White, Murray, and Moore led the attack with victories in their individual events. Murray won the shot, White took the hurdle event, while Moore unleashed his trademark kick to pull away from the opposition in both the 1500 and the 5000.

The next Saturday at the Hampton Institute, W&L won the shot put, the discus and the pole vault relays.

W&L won its 27th straight meet in 4 years at Wilson Field. The Generals buried Newport News and Eastern mennonite with 113 points. Andy White again had a double victory in both hurdle events for the third time this year. W&L won 12 out of the 17 events.

The Saturday before exams, W&L made the trek to Mary Washington where Rich Moore kicked past runners from Mary Washington, Frostburg State, VCU, and the University of Richmond in the last lap to win the 5000-meter race. Matt Steilberg also had an outstanding day, winning the pole vault.

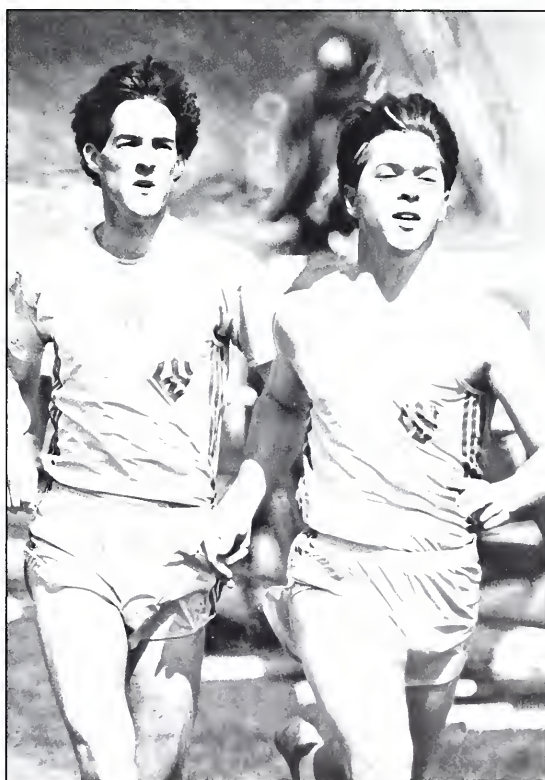

After the exams a few thinclads went to the Va. Division II and III State Outdoor Championships. Murray placed third in the shot while Rich Moore was edged out at the tape to take second in the 1500-meters and Jamie Urso placed third in the 800-meters.

The Catholic Invitational on the following weekend was the only disappointment of the entire season. Premier sprinter Wes Boyd false started in the 100-meters and hurdler Andy White had hamstring problems that forced him to drop out of the high hurdles finals. However, Joe Fischer had a great day at the vault pit, going 13 ft. to win the meet and set a personal record. Murray and Moore each placed second in the shot put and 5000-meter respectively.

On April 26, W&L returned to Bridgewater for the ODAC Outdoor Track and Field Championship. Despite cold and wet weather, the Generals rose to the occasion, winning 9 of the 17 events. Coach Aldridge was named Coach-of-the-Year for the outdoor season, and Andy White earned Runner-of-the-Year honors again for yet another double victory in both hurdle events. Wes Boyd also won the 100-meter and 200-meter races at the meet earned the Ring Tum Phi Athlete-of-the-Week award. Tom Murray set yet another conference record with his throw of 49 feet in the shot put that bested the mark set by former W&L coach Joe Freeland.

Other winners included Fray McCormick in the high jump, John Carter in the pole vault, Rich Moore in the 1500-meter, 1600-meter relay team of Andy White, Boyd, Urso, and John White.

The team will miss the valuable contributions of many seniors, including Murray, Larder, Burlingame, 5-time conference champion Kevin Weaver, distance runners Ash Andrews, Steven Pockrass and Tom Boyd, 1985 ODAC indoor and 1986 outdoor pole vault champion Matt Steilberg. However, with a proven corps of athletes, the return of freshman pole vault sensation Phillip Sampson, and the influx of many new recruits, Ring Tum Phi Coach of the Year Norris Aldridge has nothing to worry about.

After a second place finish in 1986 and Division III team championships, it appeared as if 1987 would be the year for the W&L men's tennis team. Four starters returned from last year's team, leaving two crucial spots open for 1987. Sophomore transfer Robert Haley stepped in to fill the number one position, and highly touted freshman John Morris filled the sixth spot completing what head coach Gary Franke would call his "best team ever."

Ranked second in the nation by the pre-season coaches' poll, the netters faced a tough schedule that included 11 Division I opponents. The Generals gave an indication of just how solid they were with an opening 6-3 victory over James Madison, a division I school that had never lost to W&L.

The Generals opened their home season with another win over Division II Millersville. The singles lineup continued to produce, winning five of six matches, but it was the doubles that seemed to be the Generals' strong point. In the win over Millersville, the team of McLeod-Matthews, Haley-Mize, and Wiman-Morris recorded their second straight sweep.

The netters hit a stumbling block in their third match of the season, a 7-2 loss against Div. I VA Tech on fast indoor court, a match that was much closer than the score indicates.

After a convincing thrashing of Division II Slippery Rock, the Generals proved they were capable of playing anyone in a 5-4 win over Division I Davidson. In one of the biggest wins of the season, Mize, Wiman, and Morris all got hard-fought single wins, and the doubles team of McLeod-Matthews and Wiman-Morris clinched the victory.

Highly-ranked Division I Furman proved a bit strong for the Generals, humbling them by a 7-2 score. However, the loss provided a catalyst for the Generals, propelling them on a nine match winning streak that saw W&L knock off five Division II, one Division II, and three Division I opponents.

Included in the stretch was an important win over state rival William and Mary, and crucial victories in a weekend set over the two highly-ranked Division III programs Emory and Swarthmore. The Generals crushed No. 5 ranked Emory, 8-1, then duplicated their performance with an 8-1 decision over No. 3 ranked Little Quakers of Swarthmore. Haley, Matthews, McLeod, and Wiman were undefeated in the two matches, winning all their singles and doubles. The strong weekend firmly entrenched W&L as one of the top three teams in the nation.

The Generals followed their two big wins with consecutive 9-0 victories over Virginia Military and Hampden-Sydney before taking time off for exams.

After exams, the Generals embarked on their annual spring trip for five grueling matches in the Florida sun. The southern swing was a winning one, as the netters took three of five contests, downing Division I Stetson, Division II St. Leo's, and a highly ranked NAIA team, North Florida. But the week was also somewhat disappointing for the Generals after two heart-breaking losses to No. 2 ranked Division II Rollins, and No. 1 ranked NAIA Flagler. Both matches were decided by close three-setters that would have changed the outcome of the match. There were bright spots, however, as John Morris went undefeated for the week in both singles and doubles, as did the doubles team of McLeod-Matthews, running their record to 17-1.

Back home in Lexington, the Generals warmed up for the ODAC with a 9-0 decision over Christopher Newport and an 8-1 decision over Division III Averet. At the end of the Generals's regular season dual matches, their record stands at 16-4.

In 1987 the Generals finally attained a goal that had eluded them for two years — a sweep of the ODAC Championships. All six singles crowns are taken by the Generals as well as all three doubles flights, an impressive feat considering the absence of No. 2 Matthews, who was injured on the Florida trip. Freshman Matt Ormiston filled in splendidly for Matthews, capturing the sixth singles flight and teaming up with McLeod for a win at No. 1 doubles.

At Nationals the Generals earn in the finals the chance to play No. 1 ranked Kalamazoo by beating Rochester University in the first round, 7-2, and pulling a 5-1 decision over a young, highly-regarded University of California at Santa Cruz squad in the semifinals match. But in the finals the Generals' dream of capturing W&L's first national championship once again fell short at the hands of the Kalamazoo Hornets. The Generals lose three singles matches in the final set of each by a difference of a couple of points and the championship goes to Kalamazoo for a second straight year with their 6-3 victory.

Despite the disappointment of the team championships the individual tournament proved to be a huge success, with three W&L players being named All-American. Robert Haley earned All-American honors as he advanced to a quarter-final round of singles before bowing out to the eventual champion, Sophomore Bobby Matthews, who did not lose a match during the team competition, was named All-American in both singles, in which he was a quarter finalist, and doubles, advancing to the semifinal round with All-American partner David McLeod.

With five returning starters, it looks as if 1988 will finally bring W&L a national championship tennis team.

Junior year was truly a time of realization that the "real world" was approaching. It seemed almost impossible that there was only one year left at Washington and Lee when there was so much yet to do. Although their college years were half way over, they had the insight to look ahead while still enjoying college life.

The responsibilities increased but the juniors accepted the challenge. A new seriousness set in as they discovered that they had to exert more energy into their studies. Having selected their majors, the juniors began more centralized and difficult study. Leadership opportunities as well became more available in fraternities, student government, athletics, and in academics.

These responsibilities did not stop the junior class from having fun though. Many of them enjoyed class activities such as the class party at Zolman's Pavillion. Foreign study programs were exciting as well as educational for adventurous members of the class during spring term. Without the pressures the senior class faced with finding jobs and with the experience of three years in college, 1987 was an ideal time for them to study in other countries.

By the end of the year, they were ready to move forward to greater challenges. The upcoming year would be their chance to take over the chain of command. The prospects for completing their studies and finding jobs loomed ahead as the year came to a close. The final step was close at hand.

SOPHOMORES

For many sophomores, this year was a time to rebuild. Excited about the upcoming year, they returned to Washington and Lee early with anticipation instead of fear. Coming from the freshman dorms they were scattered all over Lexington. Many men lived in fraternity houses, while other men and women moved into dorms or apartments. Away from the close knit lives on their old hall, the sophomores had to form new ties and for many, adjust to even more freedom than the year before.

With the experience they gained the year before the sophomores knew the ins and outs of the university. Familiar with the faculty, they knew which classes to take and which ones to avoid. No longer at the bottom of the ladder, the Class of '89 was ready to take on new responsibilities.

With the coming of a new class of students, this was also the year to exert leadership. The sophomores not only gained new confidence but a chance to show their knowledge of W&L also. They were there to lead the way for the freshmen through their positions as dorm counselors, fraternity brothers, team captains, and for the women especially, leaders of the Women's Forum.

However, with this power came the need to make decisions. The task of deciding on their majors faced them head on, but they continued to move forward. The fun and frustration of college life were half over as they came closer to the future.

Pausing for a study break, Lauren Batte, Amy Pickett, and Amy Balfour enjoy a few moments of relaxation.

Donned in W&L attire, Alston Parker and Eleanor Nelson show school spirit and camaraderie on a fall afternoon.

Where is the Colonnade? Do I look utterly lost? Will I get along with my roommate? From the timid glance at Washington and Lee upon arrival to the end of spring term, the freshman class began to get answers to many of their questions about college life. They came to Lexington to begin again, to make new friends and to learn to handle the responsibilities of life on their own.

The Honor System along with student government presented the freshmen with an opportunity to discover personal integrity. The success of both systems at Washington and Lee was an added benefit to college life and promoted involvement as class elections rolled around. Knowing that the Honor System worked provided a sense of trust among the students as well.

Rush was an exciting time for all freshmen because it gave them a taste of the social life at the university. The fraternity parties were great places to meet fellow students and gave the guys an opportunity to decide where they wanted to rush if they chose to at all. However, the atmosphere changed a bit after "the snag" and the guys discovered what pledge life was all about.

As Rush flew by, so did the carefree attitudes about classes. Mid-terms quickly approached and finals were not far behind. All nighters became a common practice and freshmen learned the value of a good night's sleep in the library. The challenge of a W&L education began to become clear.

As the year drew to a close, the freshmen had settled in to college life and realized how much they had grown. They truly made their mark on Washington and Lee and got a peek into the future and a glance at what they were made of.

The Davis freshman guys enjoy getting together in the quad on the first day of spring.

Lisa Moody, Billy Turner, and Rick Silva relax for a few minutes in between classes.

After looking through the 1987 Calyx, hopefully you have considered it to be a thorough recall of the 1986-1987 school year. Much time and hard work has been put into this book by staff members and it is greatly appreciated. The following people deserve special thanks for their help in the production of this book: Roger Reynolds my Co-Editor, Hank Greenberg Business Manager, Charlie Garrison our Hunter Publishing Company Representative, Pat Hinely (WPH) for taking the senior pictures and for contributing many other photos along with Scott Ferrell (SJF), all those who wrote the sports copy, Andre Studios, Perry Hayes for his extra time spent in the dark room, and Carol Calkins for typing the dreaded senior index and for all her help throughout the year. Also we would like to thank our benefactors for their generous support.

Enjoy your 1987 Calyx.

E. Christian Blessey
Co-Editor
